

THE GOODS ON CHILVERS.

CHICAGO, Jan. 18.—Mrs. Amelia Chilvers of Merion Park told the court she was married to William H. Chilvers in November, 1904.

"One night he came home late," she said, "with a woman's underwear inside his own."

Judge Sullivan granted a divorce.

CUT THIS OUT

OLD ENGLISH REMEDY FOR CATARRH, DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES.

If you know of some one who is troubled with Catarrh, Deafness, head noises or ordinary catarrh out of this formula and send it to them and you will have been the means of saving some poor sufferer from total deafness. In England scientists for a long time past have recognized that catarrh is a constitutional disease and necessarily requires a constitutional treatment.

Sprays, inhalers and nose douches are unable to relieve the catarrh of the passages and force the disease into the middle ear, which frequently means total deafness, or else the disease is driven down the air passages towards the lungs, which is equally as dangerous. The following formula which is used extensively in the damp English climate is a constitutional treatment and should prove especially efficacious to sufferers here who live under more favorable climate conditions.

Secure from your Druggist 1 ounce of Permut (Double strength). Take this home and add to it 1 pint of hot water and a ounce of granulated sugar. Stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from distressing head noises. Clogged eardrums should improve. The inflammation in the eustachian tubes is reduced. Permut is used in this way as it acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system and has a slight tonic action that facilitates the recovery of the patient. The preparation is easy to make, costs little and is pleasant to take. Every person who has catarrh should give this treatment a trial.—Adv.

Russian Ballet Wins a Triumph At the Century

By Sylvester Rawling.

SERGE DE DIAGHILEFF'S much heralded Ballet Russe made its debut at the Century Theatre last night. The stage was a riot of color and whirling hours, with a background of Bakst's inimitable scenery. The house was like a Metropolitan Opera House first night. Everybody who was anybody was there, together with his sisters and his cousins and his aunts, and many were turned away, including one prominent newspaper man, as I unwittingly saw, who had failed to ask for a place. The opening number was "L'Oiseau de Feu," the music by Stravinsky, the story of which was told in The Evening World yesterday. The principal dancers were—and they are to be remembered because they are to be the principal dancers in many ballets to come—Xenia Maclova, Lubow Tchernicheva, and Messieurs Massine and Cecchetti.

Of course, there is only one Pavlova, who has just bid us farewell, and, unfortunately, the premier danseuse of this organization, together with the leading male dancer, are prevented, at this time, from leaving Europe; but every member of the company is an artist, the ensemble is marvellously good, the music is worth while for its own sake, and, thanks to Nahan Franko, who selected the individual players and has rehearsed them for weeks, the orchestra is a fine one, conducted by Ernest Ansermet.

Next came "La Princesse Enchantée," to music by Tchaikowsky, danced charmingly by Mile. Maclova and Adolf Bolm. "Le Pouvoir," by Rimsky-Korsakov, furnished a symphonic interlude between the acts. This was followed by the "Boite à Nuit," the music by Rimsky-Korsakov, danced by Leonide Massine and M. Zwerew.

For a good-night there was that sensuous, gruesome-ending Arabian Night's tale "Sheherazade," with its wholesale slaughter, splendidly portrayed by Flore Revalles as Zobeide, and Adolf Bolm as her nephew, favorably, with the assistance of Mile. Walsjewa and M.M. Grigoriev, Jawinsky, Cecchetti and the superb ballet. The applause was more than generous.

The enjoyment manifestly was keen. To-night's bill will be entirely new.

Olive Fremstad, a ravishing picture, in a most becoming frock, youthful, wholesome to look upon, smiling and gracious, beamed upon us yesterday afternoon at Aeolian Hall in her first and only New York recital of the season. Never has she displayed her art to such advantage, and never has her voice been so beautiful.

Mme. Fremstad's programme was all German and Scandinavian. It embraced a Schubert group and songs by Franz, Schumann, Wolf, Strauss, Sjöström and Peterson-Berger, and it ended with the famous Norwegian echo song "Kom Kyrja," with which Marcella Sembrich made us familiar, the latter a veritable triumph for Mme. Fremstad. It was a generous official programme as to quantity and quality that she gave us; yet Mme. Fremstad yielded to the demands of the crowded house and added half-a-dozen extra numbers, two or three of them to her own accompaniments at the piano. For the rest, Elmer Zollner was an efficient accompanist.

There was a double bill at the Metropolitan Opera House last night, "Hansel and Gretel" and "Pagliacci," sung to a sold-out house. Mr. Caruso returned to the cast as Canio, and Mr. Scotti as Tonio, in Leoncavallo's opera, their voices and their art as good as ever, to the relief of Mr. Gatti-Casazza's sorely troubled mind over the indisposition of his singer. Mr. Ravagnoli conducted. Humperbern by List, including the "Waldesrauschen."

Leopold Godowsky, the distinguished pianist and composer, will give a concert on April 2 at Carnegie Hall for the benefit of the Zionist Emergency Fund.

Our January White Sale Now On

CLEARANCE SALE OF FURS

This is an unusual kind of a fur sale. There are a number of points about this sale which set it apart in a way from the general run of fur sales.

For instance:

We have not bought up the season's leavings in the factories to make bargains for this sale. The goods offered are our own goods bought for our own regular trade.

We tell you the truth about what the furs really are. We do not assume that you know what the trade terms mean.

Every present indication is that furs of all kinds will cost more next year, adding to the future values of the furs you buy now.

The reductions quoted in this advertisement are from the prices marked on these furs now in our store and are not "values" imagined to make them look big.

Every piece of fur and every statement fully guaranteed. Money cheerfully refunded if you wish it.

Special Sale of Leather Goods

Purchased From

Langfeld Bros. & Company

1421-27 Wallace Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
101 Fifth Avenue, New York

About 2,000 pieces secured at a reduction of 1/3 from net prices.

After nearly 50 years of business this house decided to wind up its affairs, and last November placed their wholesale stock at the disposal of retailers throughout the country at discount prices.

Philadelphia merchants, with but one exception, were excluded, and in New York, to the best of our knowledge, only two stores secured any of these goods.

Our portion of this stock amounts to about 2,000 pieces, which we place on sale to-morrow at a similar saving to that made by us. Particular attention is directed to the fact that this special sale will consist of goods from Langfeld Bros. & Company exclusively. There will be no mixtures of other people's stocks or of near leather leatherette or any kind of substitutes for leather. Among the items featured will be found:

Brief Cases, $2.64 to $7.67
Framed Coin Purse, 10c to 90c
3-Fold Wallets with Memo, 65c to $1.97
Men's Pocketbooks, 39c to 57c
Letter Cases, 39c to $2.34
Music Folios, $1.97 to $2.64

Bankers' Filing Cases, $1.97 to $5.50
Writing Cases, $1.65 to $3.30
Memo Cases, $1.30 to $2.64
Card Cases, 34c to $1.30
Bill Books, 34c to $2.34
